OUR MISSION: To develop a resilient and competent One Health workforce to effectively prevent, detect and respond to infectious disease threats by leveraging education, research, and training excellence provided by member universities.

SEAOHUN advocates the role of universities to ...

Provide the capacity building of professionals across sectors to solve complex One Health issues

Do research that matter support policymakers with evidence-based information for decision making

Support public health surge capacity e.g., diagnostic testing, outbreak investigation
